100 %
level and flush with the floor!

Can be used in many ways

Thermally separated system threshold to be embedded in the floor with only 20 mm of floor structure necessary for all requirements and designs.

Quality guarantee

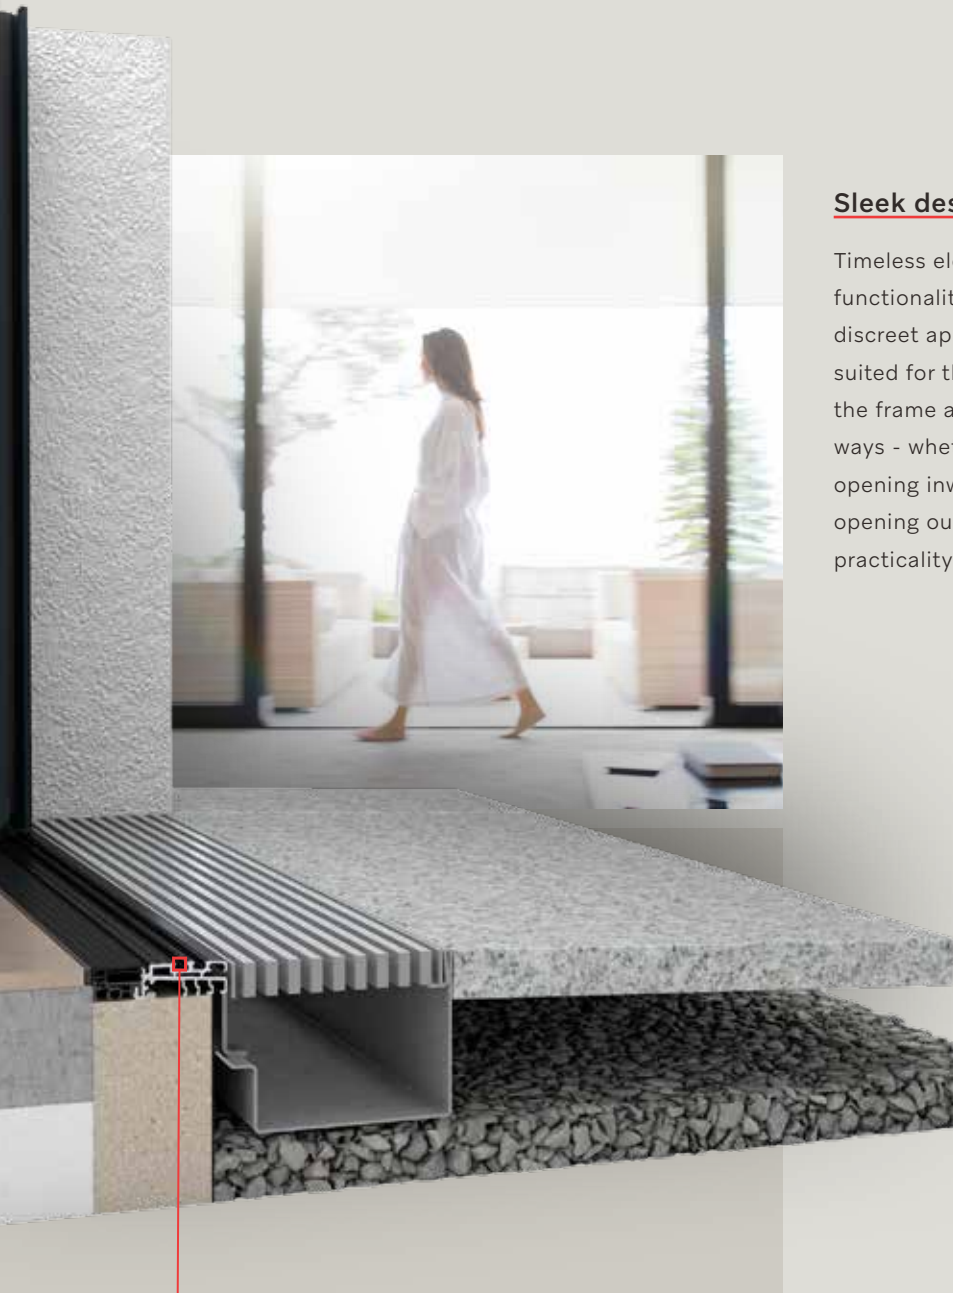

Safety thanks to CE-tested UNILUX in-house development: The Plano zero threshold is classified as barrier-free according to DIN EN 18040, is CE-tested and offers optimum product and functional safety thanks to downward-sealing moving parts.

Perfect sealing

Reliable sealing is ensured by a well thought-out system of base profile, drop-down and continuous sealing level - compatible with proven drainage systems such as Aco-Inotec and various gutter covers for on-site drainage.

Sleek design

Timeless elegance meets functionality: Our solution offers a discreet appearance, is perfectly suited for the construction depth of the frame and can be used in many ways - whether for 1- or 2-leaf doors opening inwards or 1-leaf doors opening outwards. Aesthetics and practicality in one.

Low maintenance and care requirements

Maximum convenience and safety for your home! Removable profiles minimise the need for maintenance and care. And thanks to the intelligent design with no moving parts from below, you enjoy lasting functional safety without dirt affecting the sealing.
